

Trailblazers: The New Zealand Story highlights how father and son Bill and Robert Cashmore struggled to keep their farm after New Zealand eliminated government subsidies, but are now reaping the benefits of producing a product that is competitive in the worldwide market.